Furious Driving. TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS. Sir.—Yesterday afternoon (23rd) as a body of trouns were marching on the Prays a little beyond the Murray Barracks, a cadaverous individual seated in a mail phaeton drawn by a pair of bay borses his Royal Highness to take the necessary steps | nearly drove over one of the officers, who howfor bringing away one battalien from Hongkong, ever, barely saved himself by stepping aside from Rising Sun and Julian's private house, and a comhis proper place in the ranks. Lam not aware whether the law of Hangkong takes the same view regarding rockless riding or driving through the streets as that of our own country, but certain it is in England that the people who indulge in this pastime are hauled up pretty sharply by the police and dealt with by the magistrates in a sufficiently summary manner. How often do we read in the London Police renorts of Butcher boys, drunken cabmen, publicans, and costermongers being fined or committed in default for eccentricities of this sort, and surely it is time even in Hengkong to put a stop to vagaries which endanger lives. In England it is a misdemeanour to break the ranks of Her Majesty's troops marching on the Queen's highway, but there of course centlem a never think of doing this port of thing, nor are they in habit of forcing the dangerous preximity of their carriage wheels. Summary Jurisdiction Court. Hongkong, April, 21th 1865. Before the Hon. J. C. WHYER, Esc.

J. D. ELLI- v C. VALERIO, $319.25. Value of operty last through the negligence of defenint and who is the license holder of the Risian Mr. Sharp appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. azeland for the defendant. This was a claim arising out of a robbers he reet goolies of defendant's clothing. The case as dealt with crimically some time since at the agistracy; (and reported) two coolies having en convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for e unlawful possession of a part of the said othing. The plaintiff now alleged that he was oing to lodge at the Bising Sun, and when arved at the door with his luggage, the defendant he had charge of the place, told him to go to reakfast, and he (defendant) would look after is luggage. The plaintiff obgged the wish of efendant, whilst the latter ordered the coolies to the the luggage round to the side door. Plainff never saw his luggage again, as the coolies stead of taking it to the side door carried it way and stole it. The plaintiff deposed that it as at the Resing Sun he had engaged to stay. hat he took his meals in that house. That he ad not anything to do with Julian's boarding ouse: and that the defendant had taken charge f the luggage when he had sent him upstairs to reakfast. Samuel A Moss third mate of the Helen of lation deposed to having accompanied the plain-iff to the Rising Sun and to having heard the elendant tell the plaintiff to go upetairs and get . is breakfast; and he would lock after his luggage. he Defendant denied having taken charge of the uggage. He had told the plaintiff to see his uggage taken round to the side door himself. te did norkeep a boarding house, but allowed ome of Julian's bourders to take their meals in his iouse. There was a communication between the Rising Sat and Julian's private house, and a comnunication between Julian's private house and is licensed boarding house, but the Rising Sun ind Julian'e boarding house were two distinct conerns. He had never received any money from isintiff for hourd. He had recieved money from im for drinks. He had not been paid for the reakfast the plaintiff had taken in his house the norming the largage was stylen. There were beren or eight persons who had breaklast that mornng ups airs in his house, but they were Julian's оозточтва 💳 V. Julian deposed that the plaintiff was to have seen his boarder. That he came when both he witness) and his manager were absent; and that re did not know anything of the loss of the luzrige. His licensed sailor's boarding house had in connection with the Rising Sun. A Chinese hon intervened. Part of his house was over the Bising Sun. Andrew Rickien a good nothred and intelligent Swede deposed to being present when the plaintiff reived at Julian's, Julian's was the Rising Sun. He heard -Valerio tell plaintiff to take his things round to the side door. He knew the witness Moss. He was not with plaintiff when the latter arrived with his laggage. He knew the Rising Sun : it bolonged to Julian. He knew the public bearding house, the private boarding bouse, and Julian's private room. There was a way upatairs from the Rising Son to get to the boarding house. He could describe the whole premises. The lobby was on the rouf, the front door round at the side and all the stories were upstairs. Henry Keen a steward (unemployed) deposed bearing the plaintiff tail Julian that for $100 or. $150 he would not take the matter into Court. That was all he knew of the matter.

During the hearing Mr. Sharp put several questions to Valerio and Julian, as to the communication between the Riving Sun and the licensed sailor's boarding house, which Mr. Hazeland objected to, on the ground that aither of those persons might prejudice himself by answezing-the Ordinance regarding licenses being very stringent. His Honour said that although he sustained the bjection, he still thought that upon the evidence it was clear that the two houses were connected. At all events the case showed that an inspection of the promises was necessary. Mr. sharp submitted that the defendant as a tovern kneper wie liable for the loss by theft of the property of his guests-even if a guest had only taken a glass of ale in the house, the landford

y making a profit on the sale, rendered himself Mr. Hazeland sustained the contrary but asked for a remand before addressing the Court on the subject. His Honour said he inclined to Mr. Sharp's view but would grant a remand. Of course the loss of the plaintiff would in any case be a nation of a sessment. GREEK FINANCE. - The financ & of Greece are rolling down the sharp declivity of monthly loans.

The Government (as you are awars) berrowed 1,500,000 drachmas from the National Bank, which could not lend £3,000 to save an Englishman from un Acernacian brigand, though the security offered was a good deal better in the case of the small loan than of the large one. This new loan has enabled the Government to pay the military and the police to the end of January, and he civilians to the end of December. The new Minusters entertain hopes that the Ionian Bank will lend them four millions, and this sum would enable them to face " (uturity's impenetrable gloom? until the municipal elections absorb public feeling; and the Greek 1st of April (13th) arrive, a day which ought to bring them good luck, being under the special protection of the divinity they worship.— (Times)

As the armine of the Federal Government gradually advanced into the territories of the South the fetters virtually fell from [41 the limbs of the slave. Slavery itself had been formally abolished as far as proclamations could abolish it, but the practical operation of the war was to enfranchise immediately all the negroes within reach of the Northern forces. For the "freedmen" who were thus liberated, and for the

Storage by one whole Godown or by Top or Bale: eral protection was devised by means of a "Bu- can be had. Charge moderate reau," or Board, charged with the care of their interests in a variety of ways. This institution i was established in March last, and answered its purpose during the brief remainder of the warand the period of extreme, disorganisation which preceded the definite submission of the South and the acknowledgment of the Supreme Govern- | ham Street, suitable for)s office or dwelling. ment. As the events, however, proceeded, it was looked upon with dissatisfaction by two opposite parties. It was naturally obnexions to the people of the South as representing a kind of penal jurisdiction, while, on the other hand, is was condemned by the advanced Republicant of the North as temporary, insufficient, and circumeerihed in its powers. The Republican party. therefore, introduced into Congress a new bill establishing this freedmen's Bureau in permanency, and greatly unlarging the source of its authority. This measure they succeeded in carrying through both Houses, but the President, i the Message which has just reached us, refused his assent. We may perhaps best explain the bill thus rejected by borrowing an illustration from the history of Jamaica. If then, we can imagine that an Act of Parliament had been passed empowering the party represented by Dr. Underhill and his friends to constitute mis Office or Store, Address, A.B.C., Office of this and through those tribunals to administer murtial law for the express banefit of the negro and the humiliation of the white man in all the transactions of life, we shall get a good ides of A Apply to the Freedmen's Bureau Bill as sent up to Presi-1. dent Johnson. Four millions of emancipated Haves would thus be transferred to the care of $\mathbf{G}_{ ext{overnment}}$ overweers, who would be expected to Provide in any event for their maintenance and welfare. In part, it was anticipated that this charge might be defrayed by the configuration of lands belonging to white men reachtly in rebollien, but in the main it would full upon the Treasury, and as the Bureau would be authorised to nurchase or rent estates for the benefit of the blacks, and to built schools or asylume for them as might be required, the cost would not be small,
